

ABOUT THE SAMMYS...

The Sammy Awards are Clark County's answer to the Oscars, Emmys, and Grammys. Except that our concern is less with the glitter of showbiz and more with the sparkle of wild salmon in our waterways. The Sammys recognize individuals, groups, organizations, or projects for their outstanding contributions to salmon recovery in Clark County. If you have a nomination idea, we'd love to hear from you! Please complete the form on the following page and send it to us with any attachments.

Potential nominations might involve the following:

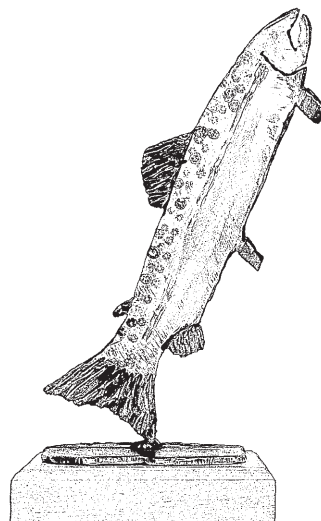

- Habitat restoration projects
- Education or outreach efforts
- Grassroots or neighborhood association projects
- A business or organization implementing salmon-friendly or best management practices
- Special or lifetime achievement for individuals with a strong commitment to salmon recovery
- Other volunteer activities

Because citizen participation is essential to successful salmon recovery, Clark County implemented the Sammy Awards in 2001 to encourage citizen efforts and recognize the good work that's already being done. The 2006 Sammy Awards will be celebrated on June 15 at the Water Resources Education Center in Vancouver.

Sammy Award winners will receive an original fish sculpture by Clark County metal artist Orlando Cox. Each sculpture is created from recycled stainless steel and is mounted on a wooden base handcrafted by Scott Prevost, another county resident.

Salmon have long been identified with the Pacific Northwest and are important to our region's culture, environment, and economy. Recovering salmon is important to Clark County, not just because of Endangered Species Act requirements, but because improving conditions for salmon is an opportunity to improve the environment that we all depend on.

We look forward to hearing from you about the good work taking place in Clark County!
